

The House of Culture Tinitinto is a place where people express themselves and create together. It's an open space shaped by those who enter it.

It's a place where art, philosophy, and community exist in conversation with everyday life. A place for making, thinking, questioning, and sharing.

It's a house of stories, of creating and exploring what makes us human. A living experiment in culture and community, where people of different backgrounds meet. Every story, every piece of art, every idea that comes through its doors adds to its soul.

It is an invitation to connect and contribute to a shared experience.

Keywords

Passion Experience Research Knowledge Freedom Connection
Collaboration Responsibility

Process

Construction – Deconstruction – Regeneration – Contribution – Analysis
– Criticality – Discourse

#your creativity matters #creativity as a tool for social change